

WOMEN FLY!

Women in Aviation & Aerospace 2004

Attention Girls in Grades 8–12!

The Museum of Flight invites you to explore the diverse roles and contributions of women in aviation and aerospace—past, present and future!

Friday, March 19, 2004, 8:30 a.m.–3:30 p.m.

Women Fly! provides you the opportunity to meet and interact with prominent women in a wide variety of aviation and aerospace careers—pilots, engineers, air traffic controllers, mechanics, even an astronaut! You'll learn about the rewards and challenges of working in aviation and aerospace and what it takes to succeed in these exciting careers. You'll be inspired by the personal stories of women who have thrived in this traditionally male field. And you'll enjoy a full day of interaction with other girls while participating in special activities in and around The Museum of Flight.

Special Women Fly! guests include:

- Julie Clark, retired Northwest Airlines captain; veteran aerobatic airshow pilot
- Suzanna Darcy-Hennemann, Boeing Co. 777 senior project pilot; first female test pilot hired by Boeing
- Kathleen Boyd Jones, corporate jet captain for Flight Options
- Dr. Janet Kavandi, NASA astronaut; veteran of three Space Shuttle flights as mission specialist
- Crystal Knotek, Northwest Airlines vice president, reservation sales and services
- Katrina Morgan, private pilot; freshman and Air Force ROTC cadet at Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, FL; alumna of The Museum of Flight's Museum Apprentice Program
- Lt. Col. Peggy Phillips, USAFR, C-17 command pilot; commander of the 97th Airlift Squadron, McChord AFB, WA
- Dawn Seymour, Women Airforce Service Pilots veteran of World War II
- Anne Simpson, Northwest Airlines 747 captain

Your $5 Women Fly! registration fee covers: a morning assembly; your choice of one of three group activities (experiences in the Museum's Aviation Learning Center or Challenger Learning Center, or a tour of Boeing Field/King County International Airport); a luncheon featuring NASA astronaut Dr. Janet Kavandi; four small-group mentor sessions with women (including our special guests) representing fields of your choice; a closing address from Boeing test pilot Suzanna Darcy-Hennemann; a Women Fly! resource bag full of cool stuff; two days of Museum admission; and more!
